Beyond De-escalation:
Crisis Response & Accountability

Half-Day Training

Getting a student through a behavior crisis is only half the battle. What happens afterward can determine whether a student simply returns to class or learns to make better choices.

We've all experienced those exhausting moments after a crisis, wondering what comes next. Do we assign consequences? Have a conversation? How do we hold students accountable without undoing their progress?

In Beyond De-escalation: Crisis Response & Accountability, we'll explore safe crisis response, student recovery, and meaningful consequences that teach essential skills. Our goal isn't simply to stop challenging behavior. It's to help students respond differently next time.

What You'll Learn

In this engaging, classroom-tested training, we'll explore how to:

- Recognize the stages of a developing behavior crisis and identify early warning signs.
- Build coordinated crisis response teams with clearly defined roles and responsibilities.
- Identify when students are ready for accountability following a behavior crisis.
- Use meaningful consequences to teach responsibility and encourage better choices.
- Guide students back to learning through reflection, skill-building, and relationship restoration.

Ready to Take Your Crisis Response Beyond De-escalation?

Getting students through a crisis is important, but what happens next matters just as much! Let's bring practical, classroom-tested training to your school or district and help your team respond to crises with confidence.
